MASSACHUSETTS STATE COLLEGE

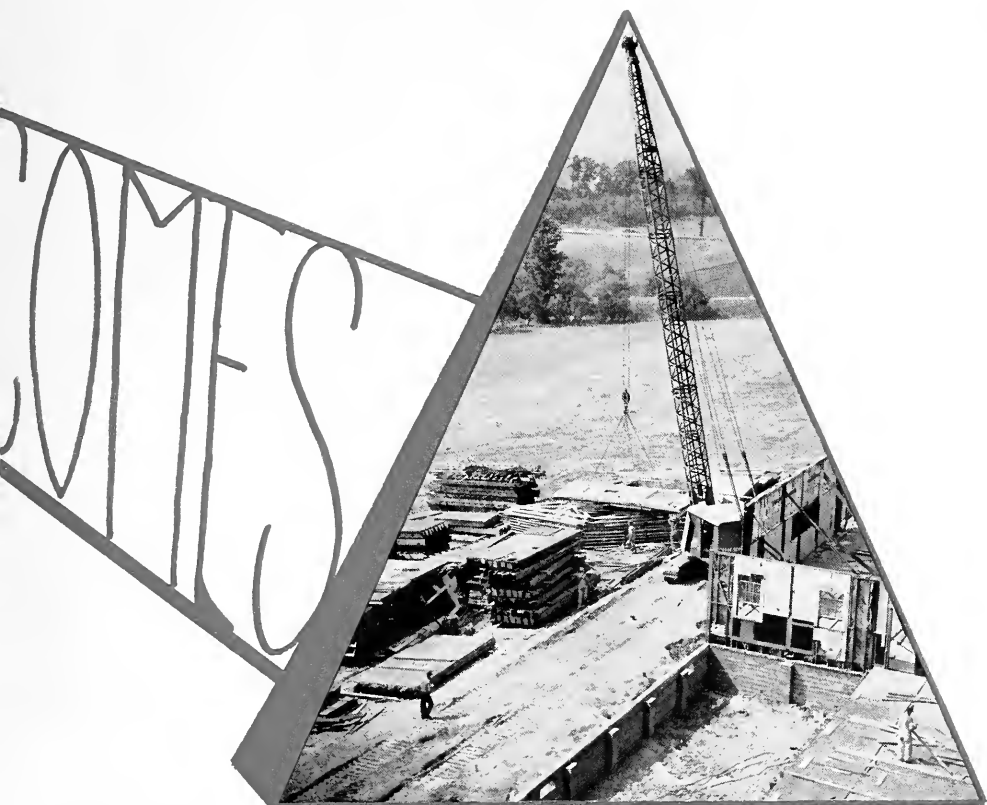

EXPANDS AND R

It was inevitable that a new university should feel the pangs of growth. The campus groaned under the load of an enlarged student body, an increased faculty, a list of new courses. It teemed with the sound of new construction which meant greater facilities. With the determination to live up to a new name came the realization that changes could not occur in one year. Massachusetts State College became the University of Massachusetts and with the change came the hope of a greater future through expansion.

AMHERST, MASS.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

1948 brought an 85th birthday plus a new name—the University of Massachusetts—to this gentleman who is an institution. Born in 1863 by the provisions of the Morrill Act, he is looking forward to a long life made great by further expansion.

Old Chapel—1867

Our campus celebrates another birthday—its first year as a university. Full of new life and a new spirit, this university, one-year old looks forward to a new future of growth and renown.

DR. RALPH A. VAN METER

In Dedication

The 1948 INDEX Board confers honor on itself, on the members of the Class of 1948, and on the man, in its decision to dedicate this volume to Acting President Ralph Albert Van Meter.

Men who serve in acting capacities frequently take the opportunity of continuing policies established by their predecessors and may not have to face problems of other than routine nature. However, such has not been true of Dr. Van Meter. Called upon to serve as Acting President for several short periods when President Hugh P. Baker was on leave or on vacation, and again to guide the University until President Baker's successor was appointed, he has not blindly followed the path of routine procedure and has proved himself equal to the tasks imposed upon him.

As liaison executive between the College and the 58th Civilian Training Detachment, he organized and directed the educational program on the campus in such an excellent manner that the College received the certificate which now hangs in the President's office. Much credit is due to Dr. Van Meter for the success of this program in which he received the assistance and cooperation of numerous members of the staff.

Dr. Van Meter was serving as Acting President during the period of organization of the Massachusetts State College at Fort Devens, a gigantic task to be completed in a few short months. In the development of this project the manifestation of his qualities of sound judgment, clear thinking, positive action, and strong personality made it obvious that here was a man who would make a desirable and effective president.

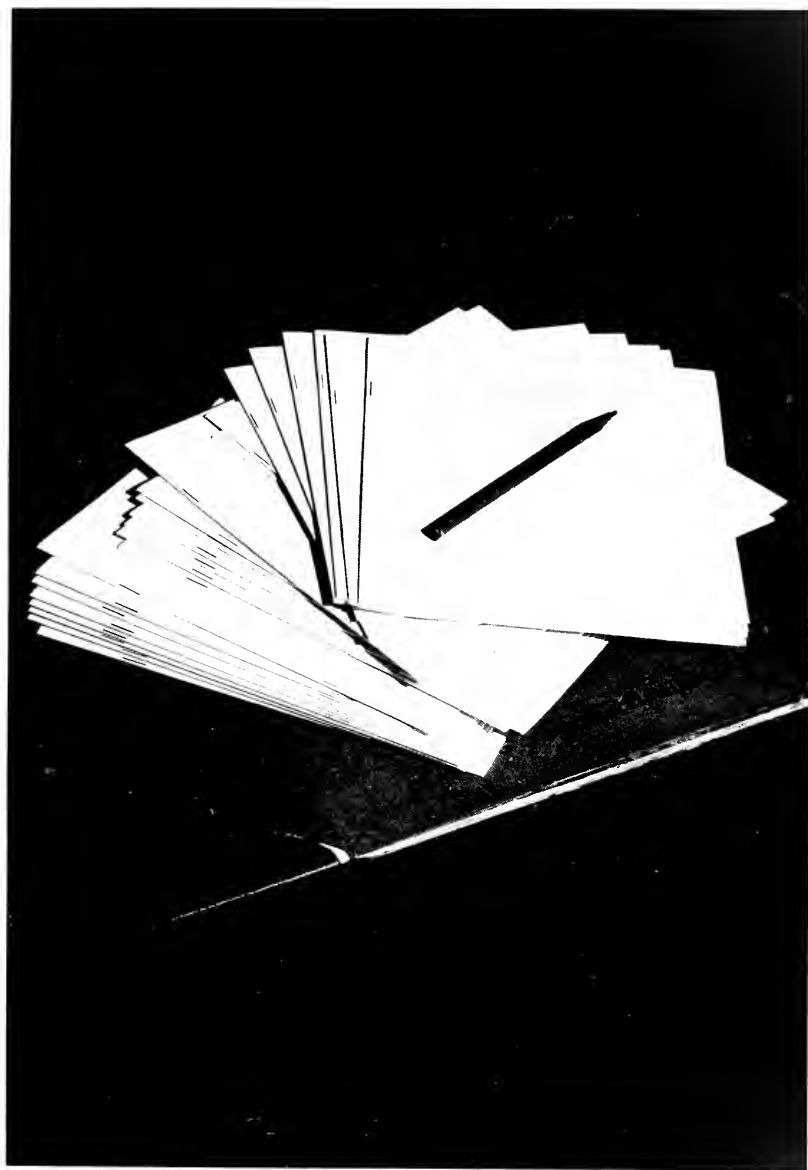

His active support of, and participation in the successful campaign for university status has endeared Dr. Van Meter to many undergraduates and alumni. Now, as Acting President of the University, in its infancy and period of rapid expansion of student body, staff, buildings and equipment, he is laying a firm foundation for that man who will some day succeed to the position of the presidency.

CLARK L. THAYER

Administration

To cope with a growing student body, many new names were added to the list of faculty members, the heart of any campus. New schools and divisions were instituted as the administration kept pace with the new times at the University of Massachusetts.

Acting President Ralph Van Meter

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS
OF 1948

You are beyond question one of the most unusual classes ever graduated from this University. Your wide variation in age and experience is something new. The seriousness and the energy with which you have approached your studies have set a record.

With the other students in American colleges in your time, you have upset completely the thinking of the American people as to who can benefit from a college education and we stand at the beginning of a new era in education in this country. Your college generation has made it perfectly clear that facilities for higher education must be tremendously expanded as rapidly as such growth can be accomplished if we are to meet the pressing needs of American Youth. These are stirring times in the educational world. You have played your part well in helping to bring about this new attitude toward higher education.

You are leaving the University in a period of unprecedented development. New buildings that are past the planning stage will increase classrooms by fifty percent and double the number of laboratories. New courses are being added and older courses strengthened.

Whatever changes may come, this will still be your University. Nothing but time and your own indifference can steal your memories of the campus and its associations. We hope you will renew them all by frequent visits and that you will always have a live interest in what is happening here.

FACULTY HONOR SOCIETIES

SIGMA XI

A society dedicated to science and to the encouragement of scientific research is Sigma Xi. Members are graduate students and faculty members elected on demonstrated ability to carry on research. Marks are no criterion.

Originally founded at Cornell in 1886, the chapter at the University of Massachusetts had its inception in 1938.

Four meetings are held yearly at which public lectures are given by prominent scientists. Meetings were held this year in January, February, March, and April.

PHI BETA KAPPA

While the University does not have a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, there does exist on campus a certain group of faculty elected to the honorary society elsewhere who banded together under the late Professor Patterson in 1932 to encourage liberal scholarship on the campus.

The society meets together three times a year. At its most recent meeting a long discussion of the new liberal arts curriculum at Amherst College was held, President Charles W. Cole of Amherst being the guest speaker.

It is the hope of the members that in the near future an undergraduate chapter may be established. In the meanwhile, the association nominates a Phi Beta Kappa Scholar from each year's graduating class.

N. Y. ALUMNI BANQUET

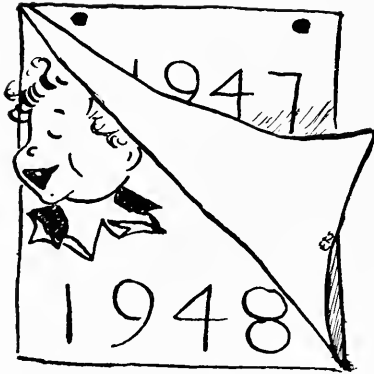

During the year just passed the Associate Alumni has continued with its work to promote, in every proper way, the welfare and prestige of the University.

Through the efforts of Chairman Edgar A. Perry '16 and his hundreds of co-workers the War Memorial Fund has reached more than $100,000 as this INDEX goes to press.

Through the efforts of Alden C. Brett '12, Chairman, and the Alumni Building Corporation, Greenough and Chadbourne dormitories have been opened for occupancy and work already is started on the construction of another alumni dormitory. Three more will be built within the next few months.

Working together with a student committee, the Officers and Directors of the Associate Alumni sponsored the Bill, heard before the Massachusetts Legislature, which changed the name of the college to the University of Massachusetts.

Notable this year has been the re-activation of local alumni clubs scattered throughout the United States from New England to California. The New York City Club held its first dinner meeting since war-time restrictions curtailed such events. The Alumni Club in Chicago reorganized and held its first regular meeting since the war. Alumni came together in Los Angeles for a pleasant dinner meeting and a renewal of the prewar gatherings.

Calendar

Amidst classes and exams, U of M students found time to take advantage of a greater “social year.” Old customs were revived and new ones added. Dances and events were “bigger and better”; parties held more often in an attempt to entertain a university.

October

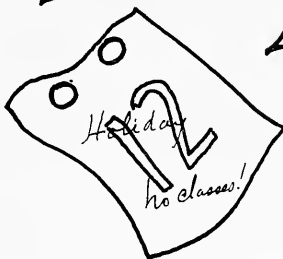

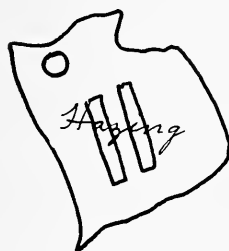

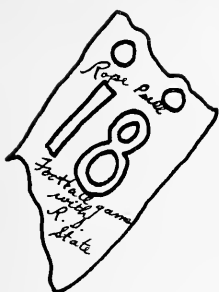

Beginning with music and ending with flowers, October was the Welcome-Back month of the year. Freshmen were welcomed to the campus first by a successful Maroon Key-Scrolls Dance and then by books and professors as classes began in earnest.

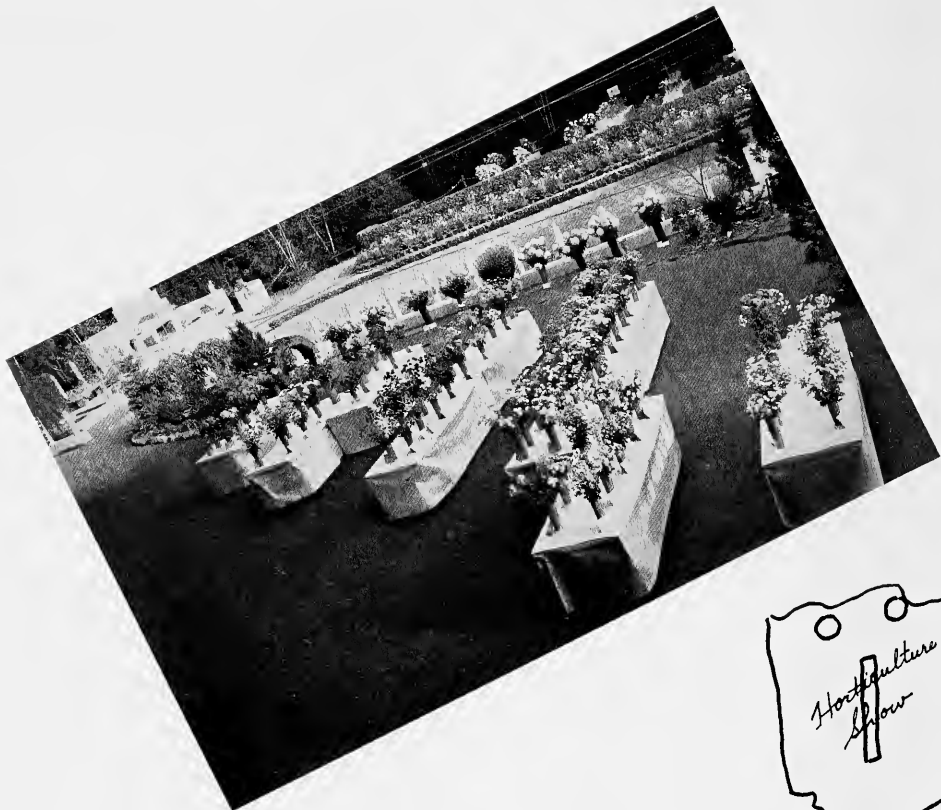

After a brief holiday, the welcoming began again with the sorority Round Robin teas for the freshman girls. Then on Homecoming Weekend the alumni were welcomed back with the Norwich game, a round of fraternity dances, and cider and donuts in Mem Hall.

Just as the end of September had begun the welcoming with Hazel Scott's first Concert Association performance, the end of October ended welcoming—with a beautiful display of flowers at the annual Hort Show. Now the year could officially begin.

November

Football games and chrysanthemums—concerts and conferences—and with them, the month of November had come to the University campus.

The annual Horticulture Show attracted hundreds to the campus. And still more visitors came as the University played host to the Men's Local 4-H Leaders' Conference and the Connecticut Valley Section of the American Chemical Society.

Over one hundred voices celebrated Christmas with Handel's Messiah—the first part of a Christmas Old-Christmas New program presented by the University chorus, while the campus thespians rehearsed for their coming production of the Male Animal.

A wonderful Tufts weekend, despite our defeat; at long last, Thanksgiving vacation, and November was gone.

December

December was a month of music! It began with a dance and ended with a song.

Military Ball, the season's first formal, and Gene Krupa; the National Symphony Orchestra, the beginning of a classical tradition for the U. of M., and Hans Kindler—both in one weekend!

*December featured drama, too. Roister Doisters' presentation of The Male Animal proved as lively and laughable a comedy as James Thurber could have meant it to be.*

With the opening of the basketball season came pre-game rallies and new University songs.

Pageants, parties, and student caroling ushered in the holiday spirit which culminated in a "Christmas Concert"—a University Chorus production.

Krupa and Kindler, new songs and old carols—a true University spirit!

Elections

January

Basketball games and stormy weather... plans for Carnival and finals looming ahead... a new month and a new year at the University of Massachusetts.

Election early in the month showed the student body in favor of joining NSA and combining WSGA and Senate as a single governing body. At the same time, Redmen became the official name for the University's football eleven.

In the field of athletics, the basketball teams traveled to Boston University, Springfield, and NHU, while here on campus, WAA conducted its annual play day.

The end of the month found dorms and fraternity houses silent as earnest students pored over their books—finals were coming—and another semester was gone.

February

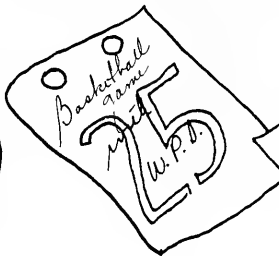

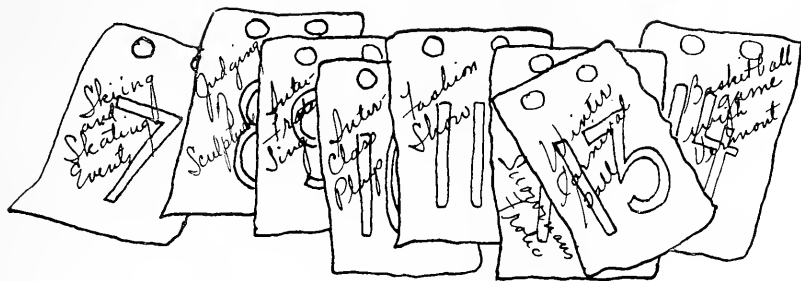

Carnival sculptures and sorority teas... valentines and snow queens... as February and a new semester came to the University campus.

With a new semester came new students—over 200 of them—from Fort Devens. And with the new semester too, came long-delayed sorority rushing and pledging.

The first University Winter Carnival highlighted the month's activities. Inter-class plays, fraternity sings, fashion shows, and sports events rounded out a full week of events climaxed by the traditional Carnival Ball. AEP's March of Dimes took top honors as the campus's most outstanding snow sculpture.

In the field of sports, the University basketball team played host to Boston University in the last game of the season. And so the leap year month skipped by.

March

The windy month blew in the opening of the Campus Community Chest Drive, which lasted the week of March first.

This year there was no set goal except on the percentage of contribution.

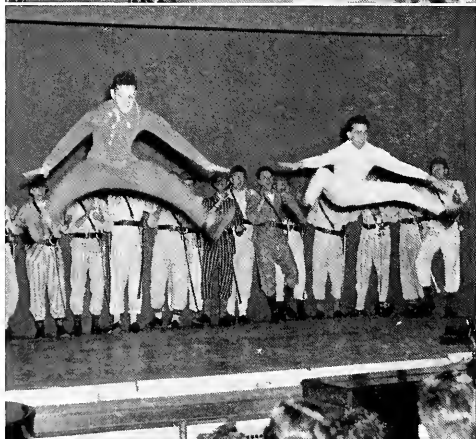

The singing, dancing, and mirthful Campus Varieties, directed by Art White and Hy Edelstein, depicted a street scene in New York. The first and third acts took place in the big city, while the second act was a flash-back to our campus. On March 23, one hundred and fifty voices of the University Chorus sang as its second presentation of the year the cantata, Seven Last Words by DuBois. Easter vacation made the month carot like a true lamb.

April, 1947

"A young man's thoughts turn to love."
 Spring had come, for the campus was over-run with Ent. students looking for all kinds of bugs. The usual deluge of April showers greeted Inter-Greek Week. Highlights of the week were Interfraternity Skits and Intersorority Sing and Declamation. While Phi Sig copped the prize for the skits, Chi Omega won the Sing, with Sigma Delta Tau coming in with the Declamation award. The next week saw the Glee Club presentation of the Red Mill.—All who saw it thought Broadway could do no better.—To finish this exciting month, Paul Robeson visited our campus, giving us a magnificent concert and excerpts from Othello.

May, 1947

The C-Store began to think of ordering new banners and the administration regretted a new order for MSC stationery—months of hard work had finally borne fruit, and early in May, Massachusetts State College officially became the University of Massachusetts.

Early in the month also, WSGA conducted the annual Mother's Day weekend, climaxed by the Roister Doister presentation of First Lady.

The beginning of the month also witnessed the traditional Junior-Senior procession, where new Isogon members were tapped.

Music week—Legislature Day, to show our representatives the University campus—and the first month in the history of the new University had come and gone.

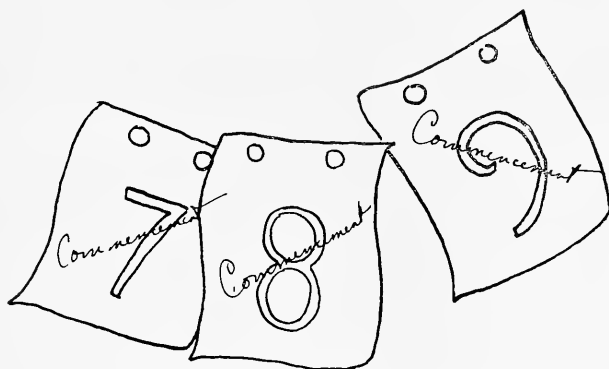

June, 1947

June, 1947—it was the end of our academic year. Undergraduates had gone home, only Seniors remained for their last campus Weekend. It signified the Soph-Senior Hop—the return of the Alumni as far back as the Class of '87—all the class reunions—the Cornerstone Ceremony for the new Home Economics Building—the Baccalaureate Service Address by Reverend James D. Sullivan S.J., of Boston College—the Academic Procession from Memorial Hall—and Graduation Exercises with an address by His Excellency Robert Fiske Bradford, Governor of the Commonwealth. This was '47's goodbye to the new University of Massachusetts.

Academic Activities

Embracing publications, music activities, and the dramatic society, "Ac Ac" built stronger organizations through the year. It was inevitable that this ever-popular phase of U of M activity should reflect the spirit of growth and inform the students of an expanding campus.

The Index

The frenzy of the INDEX Office

Because a yearbook is a permanent memory of a complete year at college, the 1948 INDEX Board tried to catch the spirit of the school year as it wrote the history of 1947-48.

The keynote of the year was expansion; the INDEX expanded along with the campus. This year a bigger book was planned in order to meet the demands of a university campus growing in every phase of college life. The result—deadlines a month earlier to allow for the printing of a larger book, more pictures, more copy, a larger staff working together in a small office, more confusion, delays, sleepless nights, feverish activity. And with it all came the determination to publish a book worthy of a university, one-year old.

Working on the principle of a "free and responsible press" as one of the most necessary features of college life, the Collegian, besides capably reporting the news of the week, has taken an active part in building up a greater spirit of understanding among students and faculty alike in solving campus problems.

Receiving its brickbats as well as its bouquets, the Collegian always upheld the highest standards of campus and professional journalism.

The Quarterly

This first year of financial independence for the Quarterly has marked the broadening of its objectives. From being the "medium of undergraduate literary expression," it has advanced to include artistic endeavor in drawings and photography. It has also been able to offer annual prizes for the best work in each of the classifications which it seeks to encourage.

Those serving on the editorial board were: Jean Roberts as editor, Patricia Clancy as associate editor, Doris Abramson and George Burgess as assistant editors. Paul Greenberg acted as business manager with Irving Ratner as his assistant.

In the new Quarterly office in Old Chapel, members of the Board kept conference hours so that they might be available to contributors, and so be of more constructive use to them. Other activities of the Board have included conducting a poll under the direction of Judith Bazol for the purpose of aligning the editorial policy more closely with student opinion, and establishing a system of exchange with other college magazines. Competition for those interested in being elected to the editorial board was carried out, and plans were laid to provide for both guest articles, and the exchange of contributions with other colleges.

Editors confer to select the best in creative writing

The Roister Doister fall presentation of Elliot Nugent and James Thurber's comedy, The Male Animal, began a very successful year for the dramatic society of the University of Massachusetts. Under the able direction of Mr. Arthur Niedeck, professor of speech and advisor to the Roister Doisters, Florence Healy '48, Robert Wroe '49, Paul Stenard '40, Romona Richards '50 and a very competent supporting cast captivated the campus audience with their splendid interpretation of the delightful comedy.

In the winter the Roister Doisters sponsored the Interclass Plays, one of the many highlights of Winter Carnival week. The excellence of the Juniors' production of Gilbert Emery's psychological drama, Thank You, Doctor, won them first-place honors.

Second-place laurels went to the Sophomore Class for their production of Winifred Harkridge's comedy, The Florist Shop.

Third place went to the Freshmen for a delightful performance of Ethel Van der Veer's Romance of the Willow Creek; fourth place to the Seniors for Milton Mills' Greek Meets Greek, a humorous picture of fraternity life.

Inspired by their success in the fall, the Roister Doisters began work in March on Maxwell Anderson's Joan of Lorraine. With this production in the spring the 1947-48 activities were brought to a close.

ENLIVENED FALL SPORTS

Football games, ROTC reviews, and school concerts highlighted the activities of the University Band this year.

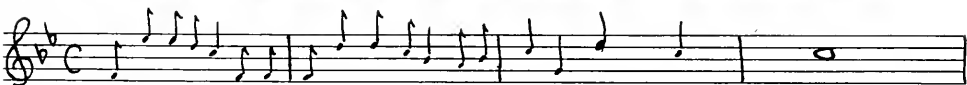

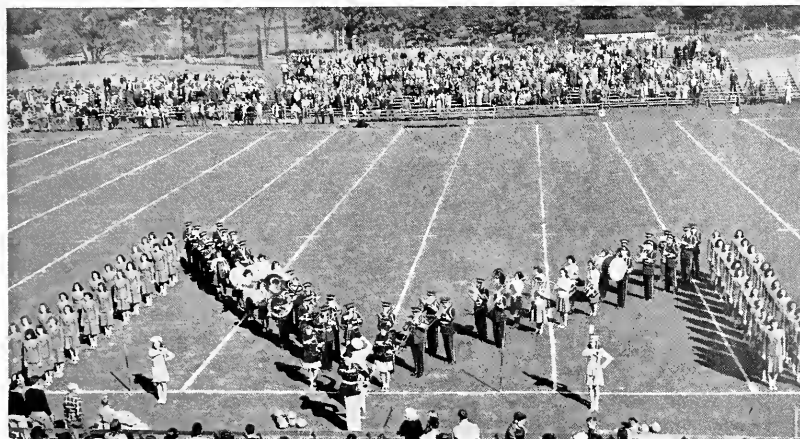

Besides providing music at many of the football games, the band sponsored a drill team for the second year. Under the direction of Wally Kelleher, 50 girls marched with the band at the year's important football games. Leading the band as drum majorettes were Jewel Kaufman, Bunny Bloniarz, Ann Crotty, and Edgar Canty.

During the winter months, the band did not operate as a whole unit. However, most of the members played in special groups—some in the brass choir, some in the dance band, and still others in various campus musical organizations.

With spring came renewed activities of the whole band. John Weidhaas, Band Manager, and Bob Bertram, student leader, conducted the band at many ROTC functions.

A spring concert ended the group's activities for the year.

WITH THE DRILL TEAM

This fall marked the second season in which the Drill Team, a division of the Band, has been in operation on the U of M campus. It was, however, the first season in which the group had done any extensive work since it was formed too late in 1946 to appear at more than two of the State football games. The activities of the team consisted of marching through appropriate formations and letters during the half of each game.

It was believed that the U of M group is the only such organization in the East, but this year's team was determined to maintain its standing in case competition should arise. Therefore, the girls practiced long hours on the athletic field, under the capable direction of Wally Kallaughier, trying to improve their art. Wally's patience and the team's perseverance were rewarded each Saturday when the gray-clad girls performed the difficult formations with ever greater skill and precision.

Anyone interested in music who can carry a tune was welcomed without exception to membership in the University Chorus. The philosophy behind this was that sometime in a person's life, if he has any desire to sing, he should have a chance to show off his vocal ability. In this way people who might have a musical aptitude, but would ordinarily be passive to the idea of singing formally, have a chance. Not only was this organization democratic on the campus but also in the community, because the faculty, their families, and town members sufficiently interested were also welcomed. As a result the group was composed of about 160 members.

The program presented by the University Chorus during this past year, their second year of existence, was a very extensive one. Handel's "Messiah" was presented by them, the proceeds of which were contributed to the American Cancer Society. The presentation was transcribed and re-broadcasted during Christmas week. The second concert was a Christmas one in which student soloists, the University Chorale, the Chorus, and the audience participated. This program was broadcasted directly over the radio. In March a sacred cantata, "Seven Last Words," was presented by the chorus and soloists as their Easter program.

UNIVERSITY CHORALE

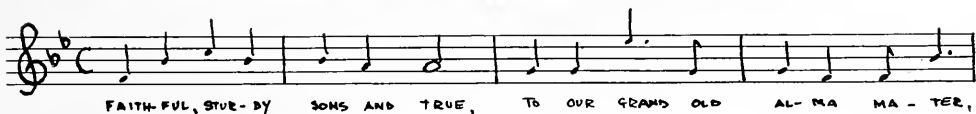

The University Chorale is a group of twenty-eight selected students, twelve men and sixteen women, who perform not only for their friends and neighbors on the campus, but who also travel to other towns making guest appearances, thus spreading their own fame, and that of the school. The Chorale is unique in the fact that it is capable of presenting an entire concert, an operetta of the Gilbert and Sullivan type, a sacred work, or even a program of shorter pieces.

A concert was presented at the Snowman's Frolic program by them during Winter Carnival Week. The program consisted of choral music, light songs, spirituals, Gilbert and Sullivan, and songs from "Brigadoon." The same concert was given by the Chorale in Worcester, Westfield, and for the Lord Jeff winter school. The University Chorale traveled also to Arlington where they sang for the Boston alumni. During March the group made a recording of Faure's "Requiem" which was broadcasted on radio station WBZ and WBZA on Good Friday.

Since the birth of the University and the Chorale have both occurred during this past year, we anxiously watch the expansion and success of both; and may they both continue their excellent work of this last year.

GIVES BROADWAY SHOWS

Although Victor Herbert's "Red Mill," directed by Doric Alviani, assisted by Robert McCartney, was experimental last year, its tremendous success has made the Operetta Guild an academic activity. This first production of the Operetta Guild was the first time a Broadway show had ever been brought to this area by an amateur company. Dorothy Morton Billings made a charming Gretchen, while Ray Frenier, a newcomer before college footlights, displayed a fine baritone voice as Hendrik. Gordon Smith and Bill Clark, as Con Kidder and Kid Conner, respectively, proved to be the top campus laugh team by their hilarious performance.

This year the guild performed Cole Porter's "Anything Goes." The guild is a broad organization, in that its members include alumni, and thus keeps former students interested in collegiate life. Success of the production is foremost; therefore alumni or anyone associated with the University may perform if the need arises.

THE HANDBOOK

To contribute toward making the Handbook a college bible for the U of M students has been the goal of this year's Handbook Board members. With the hope of producing a book answering every possible question of campus concern, giving the students a day-by-day calendar for future events, as well as a complete directory of college personalities and places, the Board has worked steadily toward its day of publication. The Handbook has definitely emerged from a Freshman status to that of a general campus organ. Guided by the editorial ability of Betty Krieger and the never-failing advice of Miss Leonta Horrigan, the Board may well be proud of its work and results.

ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES BOARD

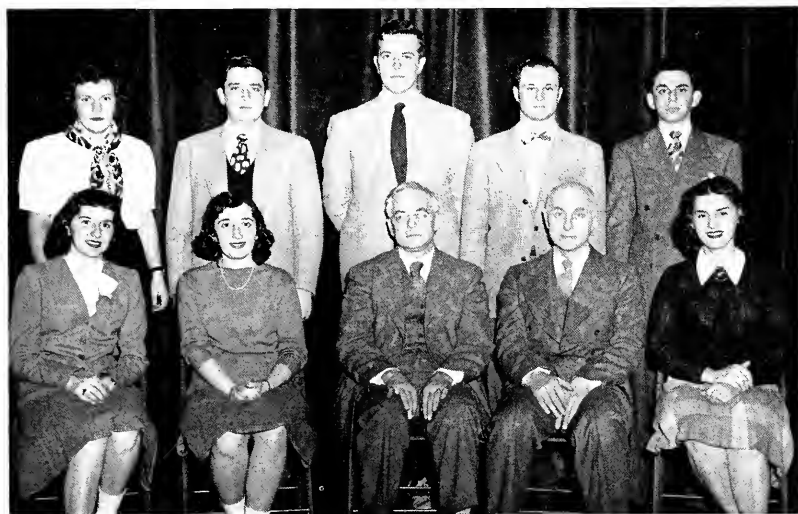

The Academic Activities Board is composed of a general manager, two faculty members, two alumni, and managers of the Collegian, Quarterly, INDEX, Handbook, University Chorus, University Chorale, Operetta Guild, Band, and Roister Doisters.

The Board serves as a financial aid to the organizations under its jurisdiction. On Commencement Sunday, at their annual breakfast, the Board awards honorary gold medals to alumni who have made definite contributions along academic lines on campus or elsewhere. In 1947 medals were awarded to President Emeritus Baker, Dr. Louis T. Buckman '17, and Mr. Harold Staab '13.

Last spring the conspicuous service trophy was not awarded; the manager's prize was presented to Eugene Ratner, and Theodora Melahouris.

Athletics

Not to be outdone by the college, the athletic teams also received a new name. The campus voted to call its more numerous varsity squads Redmen—indicative of the zeal, vigor, and drive of its men. A new name to spread the fame of a university!

SPORTS SUMMARY — 1948

There was little to boast about in the way of team competition this year at the U of M except for the outstanding performances of the cross-country team, which went through six meets undefeated, and the freshman football team, which finished a four-game schedule unbeaten.

Individually, Louie Clough was again a shining light as he stretched his cross-country win streak to 11 meets and set new course and college records. Ed Funkhouser was another sparkler as he won letters in cross country, swimming, and winter track, setting a new college half-mile mark in the latter sport.

Coach "Tommy" Eek

Fienman "carries" in the game with Bates

Although harbinger a successful season by winning three of their first four games, Coach Tommy Eck's gridmen made a complete reversal of form in the final half of the schedule and ended their first year as a University team with a record of three wins, four defeats, and one tie game.

Art Blanchard, Bates fullback, spoiled the Redmen's 1947 inauguration when he intercepted a U of M pass for one touchdown and threw a 29-yard aerial to set up another which led the Bobcats to a 14-6 victory. The Eckmen scored their only t.d. on a pass from Charley L'Esperance to Bill Looney in the final period.

But the horizon loomed much brighter during the next three weeks as the Redmen punched out a trio of successive wins. A highly-touted Bowdoin eleven was the first victim as Bob Raymond's third-period conversion gave the U of M a 7-6 margin of victory. As in the Bates game, it was a L'Esperance pass, this time to Hatch Hall, which paid off for the Eckmen. Bowdoin had scored first in the second canto.

The locals' annual "breather" came with Worcester Tech, which was a 33-0 victim. Sub fullback Steve Gilman paved the way with two touchdowns; Hall Fienman, Chuck Nichols, and L'Esperance scored the others.

Norwich was vanquished with even more humiliation in the next encounter as the U of M juggernaut bulldozed to a 39-0 conquest.

After the Norwich slaughter, the horizon darkened never again to become illumined. Nemesis Rhode Island State started the U of M descent with a 20-13 decision for its first win.

A 7-7 deadlock with Vermont failed to console the Maroon and White, since they outplayed the Green Mountaineers enough to deserve an easy victory. After Vermont had scored in the first stanza, sharp-shooter Charley L'Esperance helped even things up with a pass to Looney, who lateralled to Bernie Stead for the tally. Raymond saved the day again with a successful conversion.

A strong Springfield College outfit inflicted the third setback on a muddy field by outscoring the Eckmen, 14-7. The Gymnasts scored twice in the first half on 30 and 21-yard jaunts, the latter after a pass interception, and the closest the U of M could come was one touchdown in the second period on a plunge by Lee.

The final fiasco with Tufts caused the Maroon and White more "loss of face" as the Jumbos converted three miscues by the Statesmen into t.d.'s to win, 20-6. Charley L'Esperance was once again the standout for the losing locals as he counted their only tally on a two-yard end run.

BASKETBALL

Coach "Red" Ball

It's in there to count against Trinity

Although the cage was variously used for registration, concerts, horticulture shows, x-rays, and what-have-you, it always meant basketball to university students—basketball with moveable court, eager rooters, and the sound of running feet pierced by shouts or the shrill whistle of the referees.

Coach Lorin "Red" Ball's courtmen made their debut as a University of Massachusetts quintet in anything but spectacular fashion as they dropped 14 of 16 contests, gaining victories only at the expense of such hapless teams as Norwich and Worcester Tech. The record did not even show an expected improvement over that of last year when practically the same quintet lost 12 of 16 games.

For statistics the Redmen, to which the name was changed in mid-season from Statesmen, scored 675 points to their combined opponents' 855. Captain Ed McGrath topped the individual scoring list with 158 points or an average of about 10 points per game. Bill Looney, transferred from Devens, was second in line with 142 points or an average of about nine points a game. Jim McDonald, playing first-string this season, and "Red" Richardson also contributed a goodly dole of the points.

The Ballmen inaugurated the season in fairly auspicious style by downing Norwich decisively, 54-37. No unusual disappointment was felt in losing to a strong Northeastern quintet, 57-35, or to a good Trinity five, 54-37. The Maine game, a late addition to the schedule, even raised the spirit of the Redmen a bit as they lost by only 59-54. After putting up a good but losing fight to an off-form usually formidable Boston University five and losing by only seven points, 54-47, the locals took two real lambastings at the hands of Springfield and Connecticut by scores of 57-32 and 58-20, respectively, and then another setback from New Hampshire, 51-44.

The morale soared after a close 38-36 win over Worcester Tech, but declined steadily again as the M-men lost the remaining half-dozen engagements. Clark beat them, 56-48, and Vermont shellacked them, 76-44, before they put up a game battle with Williams, only to lose by one point, 51-50. Tufts set them on the short end of a 55-41 count, and then the nadir of demoralization was reached as WPI avenged its previous loss with a 41-35 triumph. The season ended very anticlimactically with another defeat at the hands of B.U., 57-48.

Coach Earl Lorden

Bob Ryan is safe in the commencement game with B. U.

Whenever spring comes to the University of Massachusetts with its thoughts of another year at school completed, the baseball team unlocks the storerooms and pulls out bats, balls, protectors, and high hopes, and troops out to the diamond for out-of-door practice.

The few spectators exchange comments and predictions as to the coming season. Students stroll to classes nostalgically whistling "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and reciting "Casey at the Bat."

The 1947 season brought little to whistle about and no situations similar to that of "poor Old Casey," but it did leave the team with the determination to make a better showing in 1948.

Fran Riel climaxed his coaching career at the University of Massachusetts last spring as his diamond charges plugged through the season with only three victories in 15 encounters. Fran was succeeded this spring by Earl Lorden, former coach at Turners Falls high school.

The trio of U of M wins was manufactured to the chagrin of Lowell Textile, Vermont, and Worcester Tech. Southpaw veteran Bob Reis hurled two of the three triumphs and another portsider, Bill Winn, racked up the other. Gil Santin, Jim Bodurtha, and Tom Moore topped the sticking department, but Bodurtha had to withdraw from competition in mid-season with a leg injury.

Three defeats came their way before the Rielmen garnered victory number one. The Nutmeggers of Connecticut, led by heavy-hitting Milt Dropo and Walt Trojanowski, inflicted the first setback, 7-4, then Northeastern added a second, 6-3, and upstart Devens a humiliating third, 15-6. A single by Bud King in the tenth inning with darkness rapidly descending gave the locals the initial win over Lowell Textile, 6-5.

A five-game losing streak ensued with Norwich starting it, 6-4. Messrs. Dropo and Trojanowski then unloaded their power again to spark Connecticut to another victory over the Rielmen, this one more decisive, 11-3. Wesleyan, Trinity, and Boston University set them down thrice more before they edged Vermont, 5-3, a notable win since it was their first as a University of Massachusetts team and was begotten in the presence of Gov. Bradford. The newly-tagged U of M men then out-slugged Worcester Tech, 12-9, before losing their final four games to smooth-working Tufts, Trinity, Springfield, and B. U. again in that order.

Spring training for this season began March 15 with about 45 candidates responding to Coach Lorden's call, most of them sophomores, a fact which bodes good for coming seasons. The teams listed on this season's schedule are: Connecticut, Northeastern, Devens, Lowell Textile, Yale, New Hampshire, A.I.C., Worcester Tech, Trinity, Norwich, Vermont, Rhode Island, Wesleyan, Tufts, and Springfield.

SOCCER

The U of M soccer season can best be described as a series of ups and downs. Coach Larry Briggs' booters, who finished with a record of four wins and five losses, took pride in holding mighty Rensselaer to a 1-0 score, upsetting Amherst and Tufts by 2-1 and 4-3 scores respectively, and defeating WPI, 4-1, and Williams, 3-2. But there were also occasions of humiliation as exemplified by the 7-1 and 6-1 defeats at the hands of Dartmouth and Connecticut respectively, the 3-1 loss to underdog Devens, and the 4-1 setback against Trinity.

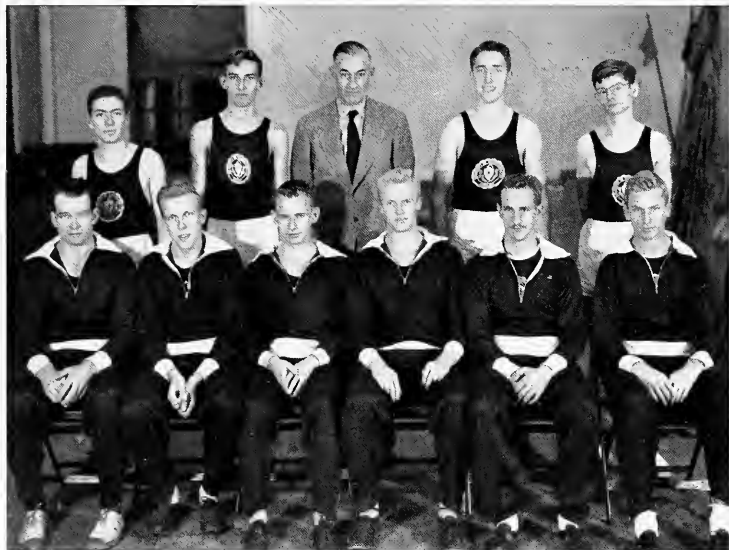

CROSS COUNTRY

Records and precedents galore were broken last fall as Coach Llewellyn Derby's harriers went through six straight meets without defeat and then finished a high second in the New England. It was the best season's record in the annals of the school and the greatest performance in the New England.

Not only that, but the team rang up an unprecedented total of three perfect-score wins over Northeastern, Amherst, and Devens. Only once did its total points exceed 19 and that was in the 26-29 upset victory over a capable MIT outfit.

Lou Clough also amassed a number of individual honors as he won six straight races to remain undefeated for two seasons in dual meets and also broke the college record three times and finally the course record in the last meet against Devens. His new course record was 20:24. He finished eighth in the New England.

WINTER TRACK

With one meet to go, Coach Derby's winter trackmen had won one meet and lost two. After the relay team had finished third and fourth in the K. of C. and B.A.A. meets in Boston, the team as a whole dropped its first dual meet to Holy Cross, 65-39. The Crusaders broke three records in this meet and Ed Funkhouser set a new 2:02.8 mark for the half-mile. The Redmen were victorious in their most thrilling meet in years, winning 49-48-43 in a triangular affair with Connecticut and WPI. Whitey Cossar broke the college two-mile record with a 10:27 effort. The Derbymen lost their third meet with Amherst, 70½-40½.

SPRING TRACK

After getting off to a bad start, the spring track team pulled up strongly in the latter half of the season to finish with a .500 record of two wins and two losses.

Three new records were established. Lou Clough set a new college outdoor mile mark with a time of 4:29.7 as he finished fourth in the Eastern Intercollegiate at Worcester. Alec Campbell broke a college record in the Easterns as he ran third in the half-mile with the time of 1:59. John McDonough threw the discus for a new record of 139 feet in the Amherst meet.

The two losses were to Amherst, 92-43, and Trinity, 78-47, while the wins were over Worcester Tech, 66-60, and Devens, 70-65.

SWIMMING

With one more swimming meet with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology remaining, Joe Rogers' mermen, few in number, but determined, sported a record of two victories and five setbacks. They suffered a serious loss in midseason when Joe Chmura, top-notch diver, was forced to leave the team due to an injury.

The first meet with Boston University gave rise to optimism as the Redmen won, 45-29, but five successive defeats at the hands of Williams, Bowdoin, Connecticut, Wesleyan, and Tufts more than offset that victory. The second win was scored over Worcester Tech, 48-24.

TENNIS

Although the Spring of 1947 saw a newly re-activated tennis team, last season's squad compiled an excellent record in the face of the stiffest type of opposition.

After losing two of their initial three games, the tennismen, led by the crack doubles combination of Nelson and Strand and the able direction of Coach Stan Salwak, came back to win their next four consecutive matches to end the season with an enviable 5-2 record.

HOCKEY

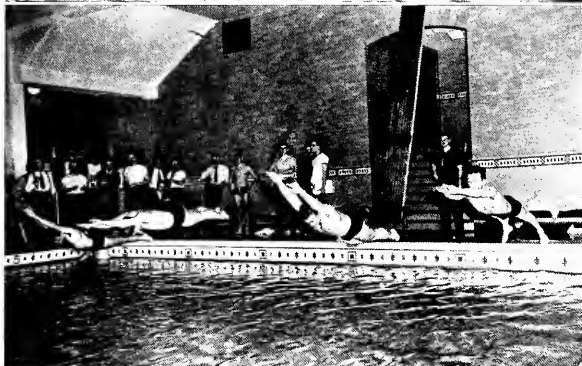

Ice Hockey had its renaissance on the U of M campus this winter, but it did not have any great degree of success. The five-game schedule was terminated at the end of three games because of the lack of practice facilities.

Tom Filmore was summoned from Springfield to coach the U of M pucksters. His charges' first opponents were the Williams Ephmen, to whom they succumbed, 11-1. New Hampshire then took its measure, 12-1, and Deerfield, 7-2.

Student Life

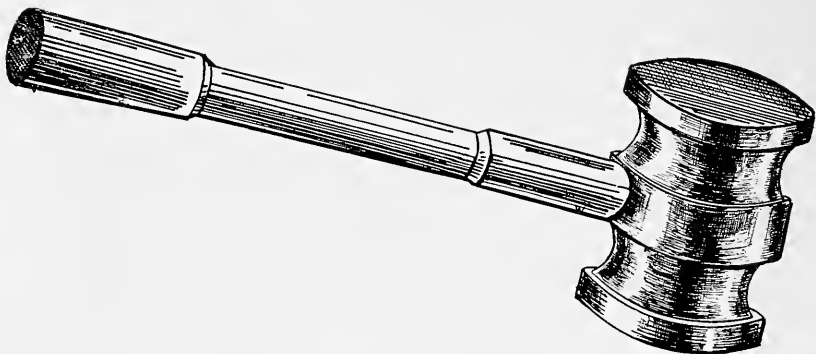

More clubs, more meetings, more innovations! "Something doing on campus every night" seemed to be the slogan. The many varied clubs were sure to appeal to the interests of every person. Everyone was given an opportunity to participate in activities at the University of Massachusetts.

SENATE

Acting more in its legislative than its disciplinary capacities, the Senate, the men's student governing body, this year helped to bring needed innovations to this campus. Several of its accomplishments were the result of a referendum in which the students favored a unified student government, adopted the name of "Redmen," and voted to join the National Students Association. The Senate also established a new plan for electing their successors—and the system of nominating committees was abolished.

The work of the Senate was not entirely legislative but included informal dances at Drill Hall, serving the Alumni during their Home-Coming Weekend, carol singing followed by refreshments at Memorial Hall. Further remembrances of the 1947-48 Senate exist in the loud-speaker system it installed in Bowker Auditorium—and also in the hearts of the freshman boys who felt its hand during hazing and the traditional rope pull.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Working for the first time as a joint governing body with the Senate, WSGA completed one of its most successful seasons this year.

Elections in January by 1227 voters showed the campus overwhelmingly in favor of joining the two governing bodies. At the same election, students also voted in favor of joining NSA, a project actively upheld by WSGA.

Two new innovations in WSGA activities were carried out this year. The organization sent one representative to the University Committee on Student Life, composed of both faculty and student members. For the first time in the history of WSGA, a freshman representative, Gail Kuhns, was elected to WSGA Council.

In April, WSGA played host to college students throughout New England at a conference of New England college student-government organizations. Also in the spring, WSGA conducted the traditional Mother's Day weekend.

SCROLLS

Scrolls, the sophomore women's honorary society, composed of thirteen women chosen from the freshman class each spring at a special convocation, are selected on the basis of personality, scholarship, leadership ability, and service.

The purpose of the organization is to foster leadership, scholarship, and fellowship among the women students. Scrolls supervise freshman hazing, usher at concerts, conduct a convocation hour, and, when necessary, aid their parent organization, Isogon.

QUARTERLY CLUB

Held in the seminar room of Old Chapel, the Quarterly Club meetings often became informative through informal discussions of various phases of literature. Speakers from our own faculty and from other colleges sought to incite in the club members initiative in creative writing and an appreciation of literature. Science as well as liberal arts majors participated in lively debates and enjoyed the stimulating atmosphere of the Quarterly Club.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Psychology students and armchair psychologists alike found valuable information and opportunities for discussion at the meetings of the Psychology club.

The monthly talks by speakers engaged in various phases of psychological work at near-by hospitals and organizations were designed to supplement theoretical Psychology courses with current happenings in the field, and also, to give general information about Psychology to any students interested.

That Massachusetts man you saw on the opposing football team's bench wasn't a traitor after all. He was just a Maroon Key living up to one of the precepts of his organization. The Keymen had other duties, perhaps the most enjoyable being the conducting of hazing for freshman men. In addition, Maroon Key sponsored with Scrolls a get-acquainted dance for the freshman class.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY CLUB

A square dance with the choosing of a harvest queen opened the events of the Animal Husbandry Club. Another highlight in social events was a hay ride in the evening, followed by a hot-dog roast and dancing.

At the monthly meetings, speakers, who were former animal husbandry students here at the University, and movies helped inform students of the latest developments in animal husbandry.

STUDENT LIFE COMMITTEE

The University Committee on Student Life made recommendations to the Administration regarding extracurricular activities of students and student organizations (clubs, dance committees, fraternities, and sororities), particularly, mixed social events. It endeavored to encourage a proper balance between time approved for these activities and time available for studies. The Committee kept in touch with undergraduate opinion through regularly designated representatives of the Senate, W.S.G.A., Interfraternity Council, and Panhellenic Council.

WHO'S WHO

Each year outstanding students on college campuses all over America strive toward the coveted goal of being elected to membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. The selection of members is based upon participation in school activities, scholarship, personality, and character.

This year fifteen U of M students, recommended by student government groups and faculty members on campus, were approved by the publishers of the annual volume.

BACTERIOLOGY CLUB

In fulfilling its twofold purpose of attempting to improve relations between the Bacteriology Department and the student body and to aid its student members in their chosen fields of study, the Bacteriology Club has made this year an eventful and rewarding one.

The club arranged its program to include speakers from the three main fields of Bacteriology: research, commercial bacteriology, and public health.

CONCERT ASSOCIATION

This year the Student Concert Association has presented a truly fine program of concert music to the campus. The organization which is entirely run by a student group is supported by a student tax. Under the guidance of Doric Alviani, the association has for the first time brought a national symphony orchestra to the Western Massachusetts area. The program for the year has been: Hazel Scott, the National Symphony Orchestra, and John Sebastian.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Christmas decorations, textiles, and hints on the "new look" are a few subjects that were presented by the Home Economics Club during the year. The year's program also consisted of a "pot-luck" supper in March, and the Home Ec annual banquet in April. The highlight of the season was the fashion show presented in conjunction with the Floriculture Club during Winter Carnival week.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Students from India, China, Turkey, Cuba, Egypt, France, and South America, as well as from the United States comprised the membership of the International Club. This year, the members in their talks stressed specific aspects, rather than the generalities or politics of their respective countries.

To foster friendship between this country and the other countries was the main purpose of the club.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Civil Rights, the Partition Plan, Anglo-Russian Relations were but a few of the vital issues discussed by the members of the International Relations Club this year. When each new day brings farther history-making events to the foreground, this politically and socially-minded group has achieved its purpose of maintaining a living interest in world affairs through a program of forums, speakers, news analyzing, and movies.

FOOD TECHNOLOGY CLUB

Speakers on all aspects of food technology highlighted the monthly meetings of the Food Technology Club. Mr. Herbert Madsen of General Foods and Professor Robert Harris of Massachusetts Institute of Technology were two of the outstanding speakers of the year.

With a membership of over sixty graduate and undergraduate students, the club carried on an extremely active program. A picnic in the spring completed activities for the year.

Ziman, Sgt.-at-Arms
Riley, V.-Pres.; Anderson, Pres.; Savino, Sec.-Treas.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

"Learn everything about Chemistry" was the motto of the Chemistry Club and they didn't just stay at home to do it, either. This spring, a group of chemically-minded students took off for the chemical and plastics headquarters of the General Electric Company at Pittsfield. The club explored other vistas, through lectures, motion pictures, and field trips, winding up the year with full minds and full stomachs at the annual banquet.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

Operating for the pleasure and benefit of those students and faculty interested in Mathematics, the Math Club enjoys the distinction of being the only club on campus run entirely without officers. Under the guidance of the Math department, the club presented many interesting programs featuring student speakers on Mathematics. The year was climaxed with a party, complete with refreshments and mathematical games.

Day, V.-Pres.; Guyott, Pres.; Pease, Sec.

ENGINEERING CLUB

Speakers from various phases of industry spoke to the members of the Engineering Club at the monthly meetings. There were many outstanding men, including a civil engineer, who spoke on surveying, a salesman, whose topic was sales engineering, and an electrical engineer. By having these specialists at the meetings, the club helped to inform the students of the latest developments in the various fields of engineering.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Under the direction of Reverend Kenseth and the officers, the Student Christian Association kept the students in contact with their religion while away from home, by sponsoring dances, lectures, Christmas vespers, inter-faith conferences, and joint projects with other colleges. Vespers were held every Friday night, and on Palm Sunday evening, the choir gave the cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary." Communion services were also held during Lent.

Giordano, Corr. Sec.; Troy, Treas.
McCutchison, Kallagher, Pres.; Powers, Rec. Sec.

NEWMAN CLUB

The monthly programs of the Newman Club were instructive, and sometimes hilarious. Such was the case when Father Fischer, provincial chaplain, entertained the December meeting with his talk on "How to Choose a Mate." There were other interesting talks also, including one on Communism by Reverend Bertrand Weaver. The club sponsored its annual Christmas informal dance just before the holidays, and its yearly spring Communion breakfast.

JUDSON FELLOWSHIP

On alternate Thursdays, the Judson Fellowship sponsored supper meetings, followed by a worship service and discussion. Varied programs were planned, consisting of student panels, outside speakers, and informal discussions for Baptist students of the University and Amherst college. The Fellowship is sponsored by the First Baptist Church, the Massachusetts Baptist convention, and the Northern Baptist Board of Education.

PILGRIM FELLOWSHIP

The Pilgrim Fellowship, religious organization for the Congregational students, had as its adviser the Rev. Robert Brown. The activities of the Pilgrim Fellowship consisted mostly of discussions and church activities. This group, as other religious groups on campus, brought together the students in order to stimulate their interest in religion. Meetings were held by arrangement at the First Congregational Church in Amherst.

PHILLIPS BROOKS CLUB

The Phillips Brooks Club was formed fourteen years ago for Episcopal students at the University of Massachusetts and Amherst College. Discussions at the bi-monthly meetings guided the students towards an understanding of the Episcopal Church. Dr. Fraker and Chandler McCarthy were advisers to the club. The officers were: President, Robert Green; Vice-President, Martha McAfee Chapin; and Secretary-Treasurer, Pauline Baines.

The purpose of the University of Massachusetts chapter of the Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America under the jurisdiction of Hillel was to promote an understanding and active participation in the Zionist movement in the establishment of a publicly assured, legally secured Homeland for the Jewish people in Palestine.

This past year the activities of the chapter have included study groups, social functions, Jewish community work, and a campus speakers bureau.

Davern, V.-Pres.; Dickson, Sec.; Howard, Pres.

FLORICULTURE CLUB

Wishing wells, flower shows, and speakers highlighted the activities of the Floriculture Club.

Dr. Henry T. Skinner, Curator of the Morris Arboretum, Philadelphia, was one of the outstanding speakers of the year.

The organization boosted the War Memorial Drive with a wishing-well exhibit at the Horticultural Show, and added to the festivities of Winter Carnival by sponsoring a Flower Style Show together with the Home Economics Club.

OUTING CLUB

This year approximately twenty-five students found in the Outing Club a refuge from books and an outlet for enthusiasm. An overnight hike to Mt. Graylock, a biking expedition to Sugarloaf, a roam over the Holyoke range, and folk dances with the outing clubs of nearby colleges—these were the activities of the club. Monthly meetings included speakers and the projection of colored slides.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE CLUB

Designed to foster closer relationships between faculty, graduates, and undergraduates of the Landscape Architecture Department, the Land Arch. Club has completed an active and successful season.

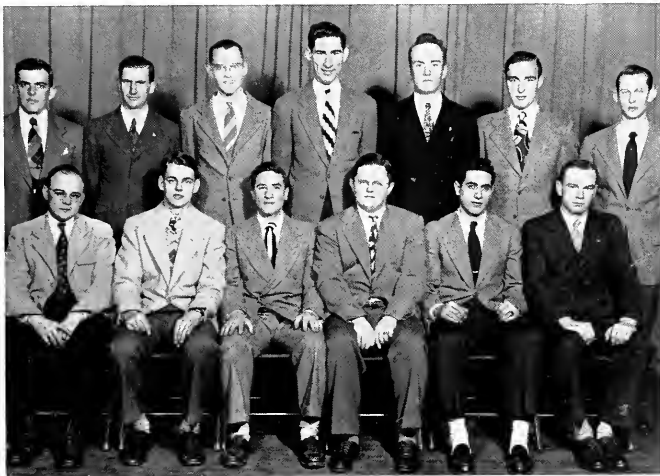

Guest speakers at the meetings held monthly at Wilder Hall helped give the students in the department contact with the professional world of Landscape Architecture. The meetings were held the first Tuesday of every month.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Good farmers are at a premium, but the Future Farmers of America spent the year working to lighten this situation. Besides listening to speakers, the group took part in reading young people for rustic life by sponsoring judging and speaking contests, and secondary school banquets on campus. The result—a new crop of experts each year to increase the yield of our country's farms.

NAIADS

Once a week a group of advanced swimmers, known as the Naiads, met in the pool of the Physical Education building, not only for recreational swimming, but also for improvement of the skill of the members.

The Naiads were the University's representatives in the Eastern Region National Intercollegiate Telegraphic Meet. Their abilities were also demonstrated in a water ballet that was presented in the spring.

NATURE GUIDE CLUB

If you were majoring in recreational leadership, or just interested in it, the Nature Guide Club helped to further your knowledge and interest in this field. The group listened to speakers and discussed problems with which they had become familiar while conducting such activities as Girl Scout troops. Come spring, a few hardy outdoor enthusiasts even plunged into the five A.M. darkness on bird and twig walks.

4-H CLUB

An "ole-fashioned" Husking Bee and Square Dance at which the National Geographic took pictures, started off the season of the 4-H Club.

The aim of the University 4-H Club was to give those students interested in 4-H and its work an opportunity to gather together and foster a deeper understanding of the 4-H pledge. Its two basic functions were: to nourish the roots of a true 4-H spirit, and to offer its services to the University and state.

POULTRY SCIENCE CLUB

The Collegiate Poultry Science Club, one of the oldest departmental clubs on the campus, has been most successful this year. The club, which boasts of more than sixty members, held bimonthly meetings in Bowditch Lodge featuring well-known speakers from the industry. Among the events sponsored by the club were dances, a smoker, athletic activities, and a lavish banquet held in February.

FRENCH CLUB

Because of the continual increase in students interested in liberal arts and languages, the French Club, this year, had a large number of avid members. The club has held some interesting meetings with movies and speakers to bring the news, the scenes, and the language of France closer to all.

The club's annual Christmas Pageant, and the continued support of the war orphan, Jean Claude, completed its activities.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

Meeting once a month in Fernald Hall, the Pre-Medical Club presented talks by Dr. Hogan, who spoke on Tuberculosis; Dr. Gilbert Woodside, who spoke on Qualifications of the Medical Student; and Arthur Kaplan, graduate student, who spoke on Bacteriological Warfare. Surgical films shown were Caesarean Operation and Gastrectomy Lobotomy. The purpose of the club is to promote interest in medicine among the students.

DAIRY CLUB

At meetings held every first and third Wednesday of the month, members of the Dairy Club discussed material pertinent to the dairy industry, and speakers connected with the dairy field gave talks on common commercial practices in the industry. A member of the American Dairy Science Association, the club had an important function in giving its members a broader view of the industry.

GRADUATE CLUB

The Graduate Club is unique in that it has no officers. Its members, believing that the system of officers limits the number of active members in the club, have organized its activities under a committee system—establishing a new committee for each event.

A dance at the Farley Club House, a “spaghetti supper,” and a meeting with the Graduate Club of Smith College were among the club-sponsored affairs.

VETERANS' WIVES ORGANIZATION

A new organization on campus, the Veterans' Wives Organization, has done a considerable amount of work and planning. The Vets' Wives decided, under the direction of Dean Curtis and Mrs. Davy, to interest themselves in various projects, besides social activities, by forming an Arts and Crafts Club, a Knitting Club, the usual Bridge Club, and by taking an active interest in swimming, bowling, and sewing.

VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

The Veterans' Association, an organization to further the interest of veterans on and off the campus, in the latest legislation before Congress, pertains to ex-service men and women. The club sent two delegates to Washington to attend the conference of National Veteran Trainers.

The social activities of the Veterans' Association consisted of speakers, movies, parties, and dances.

At their bimonthly meetings, the Physics Club sponsored talks by Dr. Jones, Professor Emeritus of Smith College, who spoke on Visible Speech; Dr. Williams of Amherst College, who spoke on Magnitostriktion, and Gerrit Duys '48 who spoke on Aspects of Sound Propagation Under Water. With H. B. Smith as President and Max Klein, Treasurer, the club served to promote general ideas in physics.

RADIO CLUB

Bearing its new title, WUMM, the University radio station presented the campus with a program of world, local, and sports news; disc jockey shows, and forums on current events.

Off to a late start because of technical difficulties, the station did not begin operating until second semester. At present, however, over 100 members are getting first-hand radio experience writing scripts, handling production details, announcing, and acting.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Naiads' water-ballet, Winter Carnival Sports, and the Basketball Playday with Rhode Island State College were examples of the many sports sponsored by the W.A.A. Fall featured the annual Freshman Playday which introduced

W.A.A. to the Frosh. Winter was highlighted by the coeducational Playnight for undergraduates, graduates, and faculty. In May, activities were concluded with a gala Spring Day to which neighboring colleges were invited.

SKI CLUB

Again this year the U of M Ski Club has taken a leading part in the winter sports of the campus. Their intent has been to help the skiing members of the school meet together and formulate plans for skiing activities. This winter the group has cleared the Thatcher Hill Trail, gone on a week-long trip to Woodstock, Vermont, conducted weekday skiing on Wheeler Hill, and taught first-aid to those interested in ski patrol.

THE MILITARY LIFE

Under the direction of Colonel R. B. Evans, the University Military Department has conducted an active program for its 319 cadets. Two advanced courses were offered: one in Air Force Transportation under the direction of Lt. Col. F. W. Nye, and Armored Cavalry under Major H. C. Parker, senior cavalry officer.

To meet the needs of the increased enrollment and the new training program, more than $100,000 worth of equipment has arrived, including an M-24 tank, two armored cars, and two jeeps. In addition, the old cavalry stables have been converted into a classroom and motor and gunnery workshops. The department still has hopes for the erection of an armory.

Many extracurricular activities were sponsored during the year. Highlight was the annual Military Ball, under the chairmanship of Cadets William Mellen and William Potter, class of '49, which was held in December at Amherst College, and featured the music of Gene Krupa. Under Major Voegeli's direction, the department developed a varsity rifle team, a ROTC rifle team, and a girls' rifle team, all coached by M/Sgt. Harry Platt; a pistol team coached by 1st Sgt. James M. Boone; and a Stockbridge rifle team coached by Sgt. Frank Gormley. Early in the fall, the cadets made their annual weekend trip to West Point to attend an illustrated lecture on the evolution of weapons and to see the Academy at work and play. In the spring, the armored section conducted a series of field exercises including an overnight bivouac problem.

Spring review drew large crowds and featured the annual awards to the outstanding cadets in each class.

Hear Ye—

This is to certify that the royal planners, otherwise known as the dance committees, have acquitted themselves admirably in the discharge of their duties and in their efforts to plan formal dances worthy of an expanding university.

The said committees were larger than in former years since they had to plan larger dances. In order to insure the entire campus of an opportunity to attend, balls were held off campus in buildings having a greater capacity than those at the university.

Decorations were more elaborate to lend a more than usual air of festivity and gaiety. Big name bands were chosen to play for the university that one day hopes to be "big."

New ideas emerged from the committee rooms: The atmosphere of the Military Ball was heightened by the use of Army equipment; Winter Carnival was extended over a period of one week; a new system of financing the Inter-Greek Ball was devised.

Therefore, the royal seal is hereto affixed for dances which provided the University of Massachusetts with a successful and colorful social season.

Everybody sing!

Bridge always attracts a crowd at Chi O.

The girls from 315 Lincoln Avenue, better known as the Chi Omegas, were active leaders on campus this year. Among their members, Chi Omega had girls on W.S.G.A. and the INDEX; the Chairman of the Winter Carnival Committee and the Honorary Colonel of the Military Ball.

Outstanding Social Events that were included in their calendar this year were the Christmas Party given by the patrons, the pledge formal, held in the spring and an Alumni Weekend held in the spring.

After the redecoration of their house, the Chi Omegas had an invitation dinner dance, at which phonograph recordings were given as favors to each invited guest.

IOTA BETA

Must be worth coming home to

Kappa Alpha Theta strives to develop a bond of sisterhood among its members, and a spirit of friendliness in campus relations. The cozy brick house just beyond the Abbey has a unique tie of friendship with the neighboring houses which is established at the beginning of each year at a tea, when Thetas invite the neighbors to come to their house to meet all the members.

With Therese Conlin as Social Chairman, the Thetas began activities of the first semester with an open-house dance, and marked the start of second semester with their annual pledge formal.

The time for rest and conversation

Coffee hour at Kappa

This year proved to be a banner one for the Delta Nu chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. The year started off with a very successful and inspiring national convention of the Alpha province. Kappas from all over New England, New York, and Canada spent three days attending meetings at the Lord Jeff, the Jones Library, and the Kappa House.

Scholastically, socially, and philanthropically Kappa was on top throughout the year by winning the scholarship tea-set for the year, by holding gay invitation dances and the annual pledge formal, and by continuing the Dorothy Canfield Fisher project of providing food and clothing for the children of France.

DELTA NU

Mrs. Kroght lends a hand

The girls of Pi Beta Phi have had a busy year as prominent contributors to the activities, both social and scholastic, on campus. The sorority can boast of its members who hold such important positions as president of Isogon, president of W.S.G.A., and house chairman. And the reputation of the sorority as "the most pinned house" on campus proves that the Pi Phis do not spend all their time in the libe.

The sorority also carried on a full and successful social program consisting of open houses, Friday coffee hours, the annual pledge formal, and a costumed invitation dance.

Wanna bite?

As in the past, the Psi Chapter of Sigma Delta Tau has been one of the outstanding sororities in scholarship and extracurricular activities. Not only does it have representatives in Phi Kappa Phi, but it claims the editorship of the INDEX, membership in the Collegian, Quarterly, Scrolls, and Isogon.

This year the SDT's instituted a Philanthropic Committee, which has as its project the adoption of a displaced European child who receives a box from the sorority each month.

The main social events were an open-house dance held in the Fall, and the Pledge Formal, held second semester.

PSI

Planning for the new house

The year 1948 was one of trials and tribulations for the Beta Eta Chapter of Sigma Kappa. Unable to return to the house on North Pleasant Street, they re-converted North College into a sorority house, but by the end of first semester the Sigma Kappas found themselves again victims of the housing shortage. The dormitories offered them residence and solution to their problem.

Undaunted by their mishaps, they began their activities for the year with a gala affair in the early part of winter, a joint open-house with Pi Phi which proved to be a great success. The highlights of the spring were the annual pledge formal and Junior-Senior picnic.

Giving the downbeat

AEPi reviews its record for 1947-1948:
Sports: AEPi won the interfraternity football championship!

Socials: To celebrate the biggest football game of the season, AEPi played host to its brothers from the Eta Deuteron Chapter of Tufts College!

Sculpturing: AEPi's "March of Dimes" won first place in the Snow Sculpture Contest of Winter Carnival Weekend!

Singing: With the harmony and color of "Meadow Land" AEPi ranked second in the Interfraternity Sing!

The traditional deer, from its place on the living-room wall, looked with pride at the spirit and enthusiasm that filled the AEPi house.

PHI

"Just listen to that rhythm, boy!"

Alpha Gamma Rho began its fraternity life in 1947 with a varied social season. The highlight of the social events was a "Farmer's Frolic Dance." Again, Alpha Gam scored with its vic dances. The social season was given a decided flavor with combined suppers and with the Annual Banquet.

Alpha Gam was in the athletic line-light with so many brothers in basketball, football, and baseball.

The spotlight was again placed on Alpha Gam with Paul Dugas' election as chairman of the Inter-fraternity Sing, a scholarship award to the fraternity from the National Alpha Gamma Rho, and the winning of the Inter-fraternity Council Scholarship Award for '47-'48.

"When good fellows get together"

Kappa Sig plays the game, too

In the Fall, the fraternity was the scene of many open-house dances. During Homecoming Weekend, October 25, the alumni were treated royally to a buffet supper after the victory. The following day, the pledges had their own banquet.

The main social event of the year was the Embassy Ball, held November 22. This was the second formal of its kind, and the Kappa Sigs hope to continue it as a tradition. Jack Mahoney and his band from Springfield provided the music, and the choosing of a queen of the ball was the highlight of the evening.

A study in concentration at Lambda Chi

Gamma Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha opened its second postwar year with members occupying key positions in every phase of university life. Members held the presidencies of Adelphia, Maroon Key, Chemistry Club, Physics Club, and S.C.A. Eighteen Lambda Chis were on varsity teams this year with fraternity president Edward McGrath captaining the basketball team and Bill Howes as co-captain of the victorious Harriers.

Lambda Chis scored again in nominating Sally Bolles for honorary colonel.

Social life included the annual Homecoming Banquet, Spring Formal, and the Saturday night invitation dances. The addition of Fran Murphy's Cave enhanced good times at Lambda Chi.

Who's got the full house?

A festive Formal Dance, held on Founders' Day, March 15, marked the 75th Anniversary Year of the founding of Phi Sig. On August 11-14, the 75th Annual Convention of Phi Sigma Kappa will be held at the Somerset Hotel in Boston. This celebration is of interest to the students of the U of M, past and present, since this organization was founded on this campus and has spread in considerable numbers to the four corners of the U.S.

On campus, Phi Sig was represented in student activities by Steve Czarnecki who was president of the Student Senate and of Adelphia.

Testing the merits of tobacco at Q.T.V.

Music is necessary for relaxation

Twelve vic parties and six smokers highlighted a banner year for QTV fraternity. 1947-48 saw the addition of several pledges and members who not only strengthened the group but also enabled it to conduct successfully the invitation dances and open houses as well as the fraternity smokers and the interfraternity exchange dinners. There were also various season activities on the social agenda for the QTV's. A Christmas dance at the house was the high spot of the winter season, while the spring months were marked by the highly successful Spring formal, the annual pledge banquet, and the popular QTV outing.

And winner takes all

This year Sigma Alpha Epsilon bought from Mrs. Ray Stannard Baker the house on 188 Sunset Avenue that once was the home of her famous husband. The legacy left in the house by Baker contains four of his books, garden tools and paint cans.

Among its members, Sigma Alpha Epsilon boasts the Secretary of the Senate, Assistant Editor of the Quarterly, Sports Editor of the Collegian and INDEX, and two men on the first-string football team.

The January Thaw Dance, started in 1947, was held again this year as S.A.E.'s contribution to Campus Social Events.

Completing its second postwar year, Sigma Phi Epsilon has carried out a highly successful program of scholastic, athletic, and social activities.

Since most of the members were graduated or had transferred to other colleges a few years ago, a small group of five men decided to reactivate the fraternity. This year 11 new men have joined the organization.

Although handicapped by the lack of a house, the members, by working together with other houses, conducted some very successful joint social affairs.

By next year, Sig Ep hopes to have a house of its own and again take its place as one of the largest and most active houses on campus.

The Tap Room Trio

Hail to the frat!

With an active membership of nearly sixty members, Tau Pi chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity celebrated its improvement and growth since its inception ten years ago by a formal this spring.

TEP ranked high in scholastics for the spring session of 1947, and has members active in the Senate, the Collegian, the Quarterly, and other campus groups. TEP's football squad was runner-up for second place in the inter-frat football competition.

Tau Pi chapter sent five delegates to the national convention in Boston in December which was climaxed with the formal induction of some of its pledges and a New Year's Eve formal.

TAU PI

Ping-pong always interests a Theta Chi

"Alma Mater First and Theta Chi for Alma Mater" has been the slogan of the fraternity that was known on campus for its annually presented Sadie Hawkins Dance and Bowery Ball. Active in sports, organizations, and interfraternity competition, Theta Chi had among its members the President of the Junior Class, Ed Drewniak, and Managing Editor of the Collegian, Hank Colton.

Originating as a local fellowship of sixteen men at Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1908, this, the fifth fraternity on campus was known as Theta Phi until 1911 when it became Theta Chapter of the National Fraternity Theta Chi.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

E. Trott, S. Bolles, M. Maser, M. Van Meter, M. Chase, M. A. Alger, P. Schekman
P. Ford, Sec.; E. Klein, V.-Pres.; J. Marien, Pres.; J. Shoenberg, Treas.; M. Avery

Anything that directly affects the majority of girls on campus needs a guiding hand. This is the purpose of the Panhellenic Council—the legislative and advisory body that supervises the activities of our six national sororities.

Through the Handbook, published by "Panhell," freshman girls are first introduced to sorority, its meanings and its purposes, and are prepared for the hectic days of "rushing" that are to follow.

As part of its functions, "Panhell" sponsors scholarship—by awarding a tea-set to the sorority with the highest scholastic average, the Intersorority Sing and Declamation, and the Inter-Greek Ball in conjunction with the Interfraternity Council.

At "Panhell" workshops, pledge captains from all the sororities exchange ideas, and so enhance the spirit of friendliness and cooperation that already exist in our Greek world.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

A. Bailet, J. Radlo, M. Henken, H. Holden, W. Robinson, D. Ray
R. Roberson, Mr. Colwell, J. Davenport, Pres.; W. Tunis, E. Kaplan

By handling the business of all fraternities collectively, the Interfraternity Council was of great aid in securing the cooperation of the Greeks. The organization sponsored activity among the fraternities with the annual presentation of the Skits and Sing. Interfraternity Sports—football, basketball, volley ball, and baseball—promoted friendly competition among the fraternities.

In conjunction with Panhellenic Council, the Interfraternity Council presented Greek Week—a week of social events which included the Greek Ball.

The Council held meetings every Wednesday evening at 5:00. Dues for each fraternity were twenty-five dollars for the academic year.

Officers of the Council were: President, John Davenport, Kappa Sigma; Vice-President, Robert Lynch, Theta Chi; Secretary, William Litz, Alpha Gamma Rho; and Treasurer, William Tunis, Phi Sigma Kappa.

Seniors

The members of the largest senior class on record stood side by side to receive their diplomas. Men and women leaving a college in a state of growth knew they would return as alumni proud to have helped in the evolution of a university.

 Tina Romano, V.-Pres.; Warren Gingras, Pres.; Phyllis Brunner, Sec.

PHI KAPPA PHI

In the Fall of 1947, seventeen members of the Class of '48 were elected to Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

The Massachusetts Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was initiated here in 1904. Senior students and graduate students from all departments who have had an 85% average during their college years are eligible for election.

The President of the Society is Prof. Frederick Troy. He became president last spring and will hold office for two years. Prof. Richard Foley is Vice-President; Prof. Arthur Julian, Secretary; Prof. Harvey Sweetman, Treasurer.

The Society elected Irving Ratner as Phi Kappa Phi Scholar and awarded him the traditional $50 prize.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

The members of the Class of 1948 had no way of predicting when they entered Massachusetts State College during a war year that they would be part of the largest class to be graduated from the University of Massachusetts. As they received their diplomas, undoubtedly some seniors thought of other faces and other times before a war interrupted their education.

The seniors of '48 have spent happy years here building friendships and associations that will last. They will remember the fun they have had participating in activities, the professors, the traditions. They look forward to the day when they will return to an expanded university, but still the campus of "those old familiar faces."

ADELPHIA

The two primary purposes of Adelpkia, senior men's honorary society, are to foster and uphold the highest type of fellowship, ideals, and interests at the University of Massachusetts; to stimulate and promote leadership among the underclassmen, and to reward them by a final recognition before their graduation from the University. The group is self-perpetuating, and eight seniors and seven juniors are recognized each spring, by tapping, at the Senior Convocation. This year's Adelpkians sponsored their annual dance with Isogon, continued with their support of the War Memorial Drive, and acted as liason agents between the alumni and the University goings-on. Adelpkians also kept a fatherly watch over their sophomore counterparts, the Keymen.

ISOAGON

Isogon is the senior women's honorary society designed to recognize outstanding girls of the class. Co-Ediquette, a book of do's and don't's published for freshmen was one of the many products of the busy society. The girls also found time to sponsor joint dances with Adelpkia, senior men's honorary society, and to oversee the work of the sophomore Scrolls. Easily recognized in their white flannel jackets, the girls displayed constantly the qualities for which they were chosen: versatility, extracurricular activities, leadership, scholarship, and character. Members for 1947-48 were tapped at the Junior-Senior Processional held in the spring of their junior year, and served throughout their senior year. The group is self-perpetuating.

The UNIVERSITY YEAR

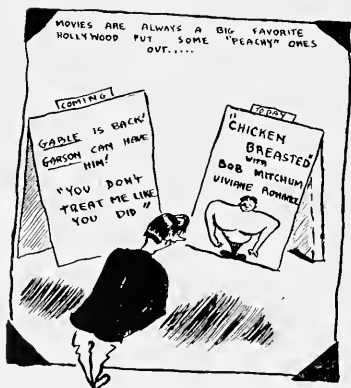

PRESIDENT BAKER
RETIRED

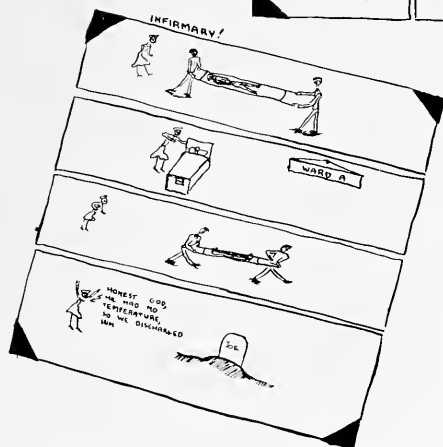

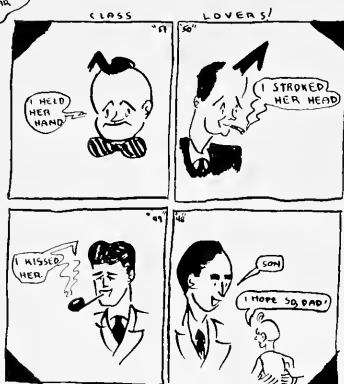

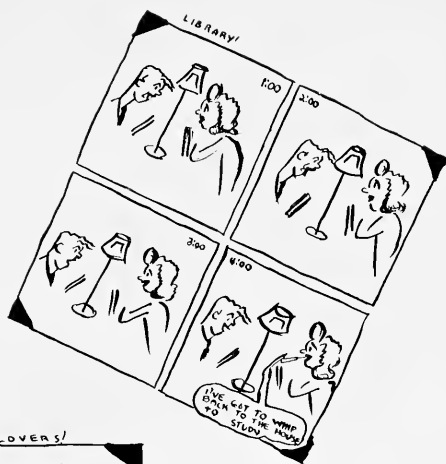

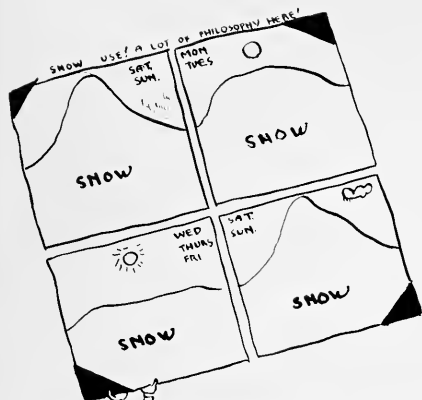

IT SEEMS STRANGE
THAT WASHINGTON
DIDN'T INVESTIGATE
THE CHANGING OF
THE NAME OF THE ATHLETIC TEAMS TO RED MEN....

Undergraduates

Each successive undergraduate class grew larger than the one before it. Everyone became aware of the ever-increasing scholastic and extracurricular opportunities. They watched with delight and pride as they became an integral part of an expanding university.

'49 — JUNIORS — '49

Alice O'Neill, Sec.; Edward Drewniak, Pres.; Sally Bolles, V.-Pres.
Absent; Robert Raymond, Capt.; George Burgess, Treas.; Raymond O'Neil, Sgt.-at-Arms

The "jolly juniors" took on a slight—oh, very slight—air of sobriety this year since it included among its large numbers so many veterans, many with families. The class of '49 was really growing up and eagerly awaiting their turn as proud seniors.

Members of the class were to be found everywhere engaged in practically all of the numerous activities on campus. Winning the Interclass Play Contest helped to inflate their egos and get them off to a good start for the second semester's work.

'50 — SOPHOMORES — '50

Melvin Mailloux, Capt.; Thomas Turner, Sgt.-at-Arms
Charles L'Esperance, Treas.; Doris Carbone, V.-Pres.; Henry Shensky, Pres.
Absent: Elizabeth Skahill, Sec.

Several cool mornings last fall saw groups of shivering freshmen assembled outside Lewis Hall, rendering a five A.M. serenade led by grinning sophomores. The freshman girls too, had their taste of hazing at the hands of the sophomore Scrolls. But after showing their superiority by a final victory in the annual Rope Pull, the sophomores settled down to a peaceful existence highlighted by the interclass plays and the sophomore presentation of The Florist Shop, which merited second place.

'51 — FRESHMEN — '51

Arthur Schofield, V.-Pres.; Bruce Wogan, Capt.; Philip Collins, Sgt.-at-Arms
Mary Jean Moinahan, Sec.; Donald Stowe, Pres.; Barbara Deane, Treas.

How fortunate is the class of '51, for it is the first class to enter the University of Massachusetts! Among these freshmen were a much larger number of non-veteran Freshman boys than any other class prior to the war.

Hazing, rushing, Draper-gripping—all the usual traditions bestowed upon the "Frosh," were passed down to the "'51'ers."

But, again, how fortunate are they, who will be here to partake in the evolution of a University worthy of its name!

Candid Album

The camera provided an excellent opportunity to keep a record of the many interesting events that form a memorable college experience. New faces, new buildings, and stunts became part of the album of the year and essential as mementos of a university in the making.

U. of M. Serves World War II Veterans with

The class of 1948 includes the first "Devens transfer" students to receive diplomas from the University of Massachusetts. This distinction highlights the service of the University of Massachusetts to the veterans of World War II: The University has provided every qualified veteran who could not be accommodated by any Massachusetts college with an opportunity to get the education promised him under the so-called GI Bill of Rights.

On June 14, 1946 the legislature, faced with the fact that the University could not accommodate all the Massachusetts veteran applicants, authorized the establishment of a branch of the University at Fort Devens "for the purpose of providing an institution of collegiate grade to veterans of World War II who resided in this commonwealth at the time of their entry into the service." The Board of Trustees of the University was enlarged by this act to include the regular trustees plus President James P. Baxter of Williams College, President Wat T. Chiverius of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, President Charles W. Cole of Amherst College, President Karl T. Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, President James B. Conant of Harvard, President Carl S. Eli of Northeastern University, President William Healy of Holy Cross, President William Keeler of Boston College and President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University.

Less than four months after the act was passed creating the University of Massachusetts at Fort Devens the school opened its doors to 1,312 students. By June of 1948 a total of 2,433 students had been registered at Fort Devens, of which approximately 350 had been transferred to Amherst for the final four semesters of their undergraduate work.

Full Two-Year College Program at Devens

Located within the reservations of a now inactive army post, the Devens campus comprises over four miles of rolling countryside. With its ivy-covered brick buildings and spacious grounds the Devens campus resembles that of a long-established college. Modern army buildings have been renovated to contain dormitories, study rooms, libraries and recreation rooms. A brick gymnasium, a nine-hole golf course, tennis courts, athletic fields, a toboggan, and a pond suitable for swimming and winter sports—all these facilities have aided the initiation of full athletic programs. A student newspaper, radio station, literary quarterly, orchestra, band, glee club, and a variety of college clubs provide a complete program of extra-curricular activities for the University students at Fort Devens.

The INDEX salutes the Fort Devens branch and is proud that the first "transfer" students to get their diplomas are members of the class of 1948.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The 1948 INDEX Board wishes to express its gratitude to the following people who helped to make its volume, a small adventure in publishing, reflect a year of action and spirit at a university, one-year old, which looks forward to greater expansion.

Professor Lawrence S. Dickinson, Business Advisor, for his encouragement and guiding hand.

Mr. Charles N. DuBois, Editorial Advisor, for his personal interest and sound advice.

Mr. George Emery, Executive Secretary of the Associate Alumni, and his office staff for their ever-ready assistance.

Walter, of Memorial Hall, for his humor and aid which helped to brighten the discouraging moments of an editor.

Mr. John Cole of the Andover Press, for his expert advice in helping the INDEX Board meet its deadlines and for his many trips to Amherst which were encouraging to the editor.

Mr. Apriar Saunders of the Greylock Engraving Co., for his interest and assurance of the best engraving techniques.

Mr. Irving P. Green of Sargent Studio, for his wit and willingness to provide the best in photography.

Mr. Michael Dasho of Sargent Studio, for his never-ending good humor as he photographed a busy campus.

Professor Clark L. Thayer, author of the dedication.

Mrs. Ralph Van Meter, for providing the photograph of Dr. Van Meter.

Professor Arthur Musgrave, for his many helpful suggestions and contributions.

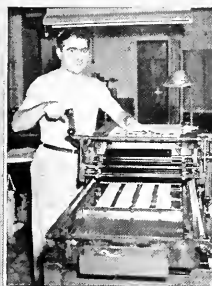

The Massachusetts Collegian, for its contributions and interest.

Prof. Arthur N. Julian, Prof. Katherine A. Clarke, Dr. Allen E. Anderson, Prof. Alexander A. MacKimmie, Mr. Ian T. MacIver, Mr. Richard M. Colwell, Dr. William H. Ross, Dr. Harry N. Glick, Mr. W. David Crockett, Mr. Frederick Tibbetts, Mr. A. J. Niedeck, for their assistance.

The merchants of the town as well as the university students were quick to realize the potentialities of a larger college. They endorsed expansion wholeheartedly, even helping to back the U of M Bill. They were sincere in the good wishes they extended to the new University of Massachusetts.

150th Anniversary

As early as 1798 Messrs. Ames and Parker had set up a printing press in Andover. Enlarged during the early years of the nineteenth century through the enterprise of Dr. Eliphalet Pearson, the first principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, which had been established 20 years earlier, the press became widely known throughout the United States and many foreign countries through the publications printed for Harvard University and the Andover Theological Seminary.

The present Andover Press, building on noble traditions, is today perhaps the best-known school and college print shop in New England. Proud of a glorious past, but not satisfied to rest on its laurels, the press has kept pace with the times by enlarging its plant and adding modern equipment in all departments.
